NEW TYPE GERMAN FIGHTER FLARE IS ENCOUNTERED BY BRITISH BOMBERS AS THEY BLAST NAZI SYNTHETIC OIL PLANT

New Device Against Allies Employed for Second Successive Night---Germans Continue to Send Pilotless Robot Bombs Across the Channel — Few Nurses and Patients Killed When One Crashes on Hospital.

By Joseph Thomas
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 17--The Nazis employed a new device against the Allies for the second successive night, the Air Ministry revealed today, when British heavy bombers which blasted a synthetic oil plant near Duisburg encountered a new type of German fighter flare.

The Germans also continued to send across the English Channel their pilotless robot bombs which they employed in considerable force on Thursday night against Southern England.

Strong forces of RAF Lancaster and Halifax bombers attacked the Fischer synthetic oil plant at Stekrade, five miles north of Duisburg, while speedy Mosquito bombers unloaded 4,000-pound bombs on Berlin.

The attack on the Stekrade plant was the second this week.

Returning pilots said that in countering their raid on the synthetic oil plant, which has an output of about 125,000 metric tons yearly and is one of ten such plants in the Ruhr, the Nazis used a flare which they had not seen before.

The flare, said the pilots, gives off a yellow light and hangs at a high level for about six seconds. Then it drops automatically to several lower levels, hanging at each for a few seconds.

Southern England again was the target of the Nazi aerial assault in which craft with and without pilots were employed. The enemy raiders were met by heavy barrages of anti-aircraft fire.

The Nazi agency DNB said in a wireless transmission that fast Ger-

MORRISVILE PLANS BORO' IMPROVEMENTS

Post-War Fund Set Up For Establishment of Water Works

$10,000 IS SET ASIDE

MORRISVILLE, June 17—Setting aside of a $10,000 fund for post-war work in Morrisville, was proposed at the meeting of the borough council this week. The suggestion was made by Councilman Charles Young. The hope is for a water works improvement, the proposed reserve fund to take care of same.

It was pointed out that a new filtration plant is urgently needed. The motion was passed and the fund arranged for.

President Harry Lair said another needed public works is a sewer system. He said the borough should act now to see that sewers are laid immediately after the war.

John Bleasdale, councilman from the Fourth Ward and chairman of the sanitation committee, announced that due to several complaints, action must be taken regarding odors coming from the Vulcanized Rubber Company. The borough secretary was authorized to write to the company to see what could be done, and also act on the repeated complaint about dumping of rubbish of an inflammable nature on the gravel pit at Philadelphia Avenue.

Hillcrest, Mercer and Harding avenue will receive a top dressing of tar and stone. Frank Hibbs, former council member, was engaged to supervise the street improvement work. About 650 feet of six-inch water main at an estimated cost of $1,300 will be put in Ferry Road between North Pennsylvania and Greenway avenues, Edgehill Gardens.

Council told Borough Solicitor Willard Curtin to take action against Roy Fox, of Newtown, who ran into a fire plug recently, causing damage of $105. Fox agreed to pay the damage at the time of the accident but has failed to do so.

In a discussion regarding the police car, Young said the car is for the protection of residents of the borough, and that if any nui-

A copy of Major Robertson's citation from President Roosevelt has been received here. It reads:

"In addition to his military duties, Major Robertson conducted extensive tests and research into the diseases of domestic animals then prevalent in Iceland, administered preventive innoculations to large numbers of cattle, sheep and hogs and advised and assisted Icelandis farmers in many ways.

"As a result of his efforts, the farmers of Iceland have greatly benefited, and internal economy of the country has been materially improved, thereby advancing the already friendly relationship between the people of Iceland and the United States."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

A Clear Case

Washington, June 15.

WHEN, some months ago, the Communist leader, Mr. Browder, smugly announced the abandonment by the Communists of a separate party of their own and their devotion, henceforth, to the American system of government, various cynical people made the obvious comment about the leopard and his well-known spots.

—o—

AND, WHEN this pious announcement was followed by ringing indorsement of Mr. Roosevelt's fourth-term effort, others pointed out that the Communists had been for the New Deal policies from the start; that they had supported Mr. Roosevelt in 1936 and 1940 when they had a party and a candidate of their own; that Mr. Browder was the original fourth termer; that the plain purpose of the Communists today, working through the CIO, which they thoroughly permeate, and the American Labor party, which they have captured, is to "infiltrate" the Democratic party and strengthen themselves in the next Roosevelt administration—if there is one.

NOT THE LEAST convincing evidence of this belief are the cries of pain that come from a certain type New Dealer who, trying to escape the unpleasant implications, makes the somewhat silly point that, in 1940, when Browder was a candidate, the Communist platform denounced the Administration's foreign policy—as though that meant anything. The evidence of support is in the Browder vote that year, not in the platform. Though there had been a large increase in Communist membership since 1932, Mr. Browder polled only 48,700 votes in 1940, as compared to 80,100 in 1936 and 103,000 in 1932. Every posted politician knows that in 1940, as in 1936, Mr. Roosevelt got more Communist votes than Mr. Browder—and with Mr. Browder's cheerful acquiescence. The fact is

SGT. LOUIS SURRICK TELLS HOW BOYS AT THE FRONT SUPPORT BOND DRIVES; FOLKS AT HOME URGED TO DO LIKEWISE

CROYDON, June 17—The Croydon committee for the Fifth War Loan Drive is making plans for solicitation of residents in this area.

The solicitors are being selected, and the Girl Scouts will also aid in the drive.

Miss Elizabeth Tyler today made public a letter received from Sgt. Louis Surrick, who is now stationed in Sardinia. The letter was written by Sgt. Surrick at the close of the last war loan drive:

"Dear Miss Tyler:

"I have before me, at this moment, a clipping from the Bristol Courier and a letter from you which contains the information that I was accorded the privilege of being number one bond purchaser in the recent drive in the Croyden area.

Honestly, I consider this more than a privilege. It is an honor and one that I sincerely appreciate. Thanks a million for granting my request.

I want to take this opportunity to inform you that it is my desire to purchase a bond in any future drive you may have in our town. I will not be so greedy as to request the number one position since I feel that no matter how soon, or how late, in any drive, the purchase is made the main object of giving our government the use of the money is fullled. After all, that is the prime purpose and a most necessary one.

"I have not as yet heard the figures on your drive but I am sure it must have been a grand success. Your committee in charge, with Mr. Harris as chairman, I know from experience, would create a spirit of enthusiasm that would make a success of anything they might undertake. Then, too, I am sure that the people of our area, who are the real purchasing power, realize the necessity of the drive and would back it wholeheartedly. My experience among them has taught me that when the residents of Croydon approve a move beneficial to the community, they get behind it with a will that is sure to make for its success. I hope it will always be so.

"It might be interesting for you to know that this particular bond drive reached all the way to the front lines where the war is actually being fought. We had a bond drive here in our squadron and the amount of dollars used to purchase bonds would, I am sure, be surprising to you. I am not at liberty to reveal any figures and the reason for that is obvious, but you can take my word for it that the results were splendid. Naturally, a very large percentage of the boys purchase bonds on a monthly basis through pay allotments, but these deductions are a regular thing and were not counted in the drive. Certainly if these men can make such a remarkable showing on the amount of wages they are receiving, a com-

CLAIM ENGINEER MET DEATH ACCIDENTALLY

Coroner's Jury Gives Its Findings; Kraus' Head Struck Tunnel

FIREMAN TOOK OVER

QUAKERTOWN, June 17—In the opinion of a coroner's jury, Charles L. Kraus, of 6527 North Fifth St., Philadelphia, engineer of the Reading Railroad "Saturday Special" that ran four miles without an engineer on Saturday afternoon, May 20, met his death in an accidental manner.

An inquest in the case was held here Thursday night in the Municipal Building, with Coroner J. Alfred Rigby, Cornwells Heights, and Deputy Coroner Dr. Raymond Tice, of Quakertown, in charge.

Kraus was killed when his head struck the inside wall of the mile-long Perkasie tunnel, and the train proceeded on, gaining speed as it headed for Quakertown, passing by road crossings without an engineer's warning signal until it was finally brought to a stop north of the Quakertown — Broad street — crossing, by the fireman who applied the air brakes. The engine was the camel-back type.

Dr. Tice was the main witness called. He testified that he was called to the scene about 1.52 p. m. He said that he found that the left side of the engineer's head was open and bleeding. The engineer was dead.

Dr. Tice said that he talked with Joseph Hone, 1629 N. 12th St., Philadelphia, the fireman, who told him that he thought something was wrong when the train passed by several road crossings without the engineer's warning signal. Hone told Dr. Tice that he crawled up to the engineer's cabin and there found Kraus' lifeless body hanging out the cab window. It was then that Hone applied the air-brakes, after the train had speeded by the Quakertown passenger station with the dead engineer in the cab.

Dr. Tice testified that Kraus was a veteran engineer and weighed about 200 pounds and was 5 feet, 8 inches tall. The engineer's skull was fractured.

"No evidences of any constitutional disease were found during the autopsy," Dr. Tice testified. "From the findings of external violence the cause of death was thought to be as a result of compound fracture of the skull."

"Going into the tunnel north of Perkasie, headed north-bound, Engineer Kraus waved to the tunnel watchman, Charles L. Kramer."

Deputy Coroner Tice testified that Cowal, of Lansdale, supervisor of tracks, found four marks on the side of the tunnel. The first mark was noted approximately one-eighth mile from the south portal of the tunnel, and this was a brush

The Stroller

—o—

The Stroller,
Dear Sir:

Please tell "Ed" Lynn that Jack London has been dead just about 28 years.

Also, he has not seen a freight train go over Mill street for at least 33 years.

Please correct.

DAILY READER
(B. E. Seifert)

Another reader of the Stroller column informs me that it has been at least 35 years since Jack London was arrested here. This reader states that the arrest was made at Pond and Walnut streets by the late Anthony Tice, who was a member of the Bristol police force.

"Ed" Lynn says that the arrest was made at Mill street and the Highway, near the Grand Theatre, 20 years ago, by the late Chief of Police Charles Saxton.

BENSALEM EMPLOYEES BUY $3,125 IN BONDS

Bond Wagon Visits Two Industrial Plants; Shows Presented

ENTHUSIASM IS KEEN

At war bond rallies, staged at Pennsylvania Salt Mfg. Co. and Keystone Wood Preserving Co. plants, Bensalem Township, under auspices of the War Finance Committee an aggregate amount of $3,125 in war bonds were purchased by the employees.

The initial rally was held yesterday noon in the Pennsylvania Salt plant where the management had erected an elaborate booth and stage for the occasion.

After the entertainment which consisted of a stage show, headed by Carmen Torrente, Andalusia, featuring the "Four Blues," nationally known recording artists, and Miss Nan Jones, a total of $1325 was sold in bonds to company employees. Through the generosity of Mr. Torrente free beverages were distributed to the employees.

Employees bought bonds for the privilege of dancing with members of the show and numerous examples of the terpsichorian art were displayed, from the polka to jitterbug, resulting in hearty guffaws from on-lookers.

At 4 p. m. the bond wagon rolled into the Keystone Wood Preserving Co. premises, where Carmen and his show entertained those employed by that company. The first to buy a bond was Denwitty Jones, colored, who purchased a $100 bond. Mr. Jones, a man of advanced years, said he is the father of 11 children, three of his sons abroad with the armed forces. When his purchase was announced it was applauded by cheers.

From then on the sales momentum gathered speed. To the tunes

Rev. Augustus Welsh Is Rotary Club Speaker

QUAKERTOWN, June 17 — The Rev. Augustus Welsh, Bethlehem, a former president of the Bethlehem Rotary Club, gave the local Rotarians food for thought in his address to the club this week.

The Rev. Mr. Welsh gave a talk different from the usual type of Rotary addresses by explaining four rules of life which he has laid down for himself and which, he said, may benefit others.

The clergyman said people live largely by chance or by accident and much time is wasted and many things undone, hence the necessity for definite rules by which to live.

His first rule is start the day with God because, he said, the individual needs divine help in facing the many problems of each day. His second rule is that the will should rule the feelings of the individual, and the individual should not give way easily to sudden emotions, because human nature often runs berserk when the emotions take control of the mind, either for good or evil.

In the third place, said Rev. Welsh, the individual should cultivate a tolerance of the opinions of others and a sympathy for others. In this connection the teachings of Rotary, he said, are having an important influence in favor of tolerance and this will help to produce fairness in post-war dealings with other nations.

The last rule, said Rev. Welsh, is "Don't worry. Do the best you can and leave the rest to God."

Americans Forces Suff er 15,883 Casualties in Securing Beachheads

With the U. S. Army in France—American forces suffered 15,883 casualties in securing their beachhead positions in France, Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley disclosed today.

The casualties included 3,283 dead, and 12,600 wounded. Gen. Bradley also announced that the total number of German prisoners evacuated from the American beachhead was 8,500. The commander of all U. S. ground forces in France declared that Americans had survived two critical periods and "we are absolutely secure here now." Bradley identified these periods as the landings on the beaches east of the Douve and the enemy counter-attack at Carentan.

"The guts, valor and extreme bravery of the men and their leaders, through which we were able to make the landing a success," were praised by Gen. Bradley. "I can't say too much for the paratroops," he went on. Gen. Bradley also praised the work of the navy in knocking out German defense. The air force was lauded for the wonderful work done in keeping the enemy front building up his forces before the Americans were securely ashore.

The Germans, he disclosed, have a total of 16 divisions confronting the Allied beachheads and have 62 divisions scattered from Denmark down along the French coast.

Battle for Cherbourg Peninsula Enters Final Phase

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force—The battle for the Cherbourg Peninsula entered its final phase today when German troops were reported to have begun evacuation of Barneville and La Haye Du Puits in the face of rapid American strides toward the west coast. Germans Evacuate Two More Villages

A Tactical Reconnaissance Rear Echelon Base—German evacuation of Braneville and La Haye Du Puits was reported in information reaching this reconnaissance base today as Allied forces drove steadily toward the west coast of the Cherbourg Peninsula. Advance reconnaissance patrols were reported already inside Barneville, with the bulk of Allied forces less than eight miles from the Atlantic Ocean, virtually cutting off the whole Cherbourg Peninsula.

NOT WAITING FOR BREWSTER CRISIS TO START PLANNING

Private Industry Has Research Committee Now at Work

ON POST-WAR PLANS

Book is Made Available by Bucks Co. Committee For Econmic Development

"Private industry is not waiting for a Brewster crisis to get started on post war planning. In fact it has had a committee of research experts and others working for more than a year in planning practical post-war guides for industrial leaders," it was stated today by Charles H. Boehm, superintendent of Bucks County public schools.

"Concrete steps which may be taken by industrial employers in planning for high postwar levels of production and employment are set forth in great detail in a handbook, Planning the Future of Your Business, prepared for the Committee for Economic Development by a special committee of the Association of Consulting Management Engineers and issued by the C. E. D. this week.

The handbook is obtainable locally through the Bucks County Committee for Economic Development. County Chairman Boehm has placed a number of copies in the hands of the industrial chairman in the six different areas in the county. Some of these new handbooks are already in the hands of Bucks County industrial representatives. While the handbook is best suited for leaders employing 50 or more people, it is helpful to industrial plants that have only a few employees. It is not obtainable from the national C. E. D. office. More than 48,000 industrial concerns, representing 73% of the nation's 1939 factory output, are already working with 1498 local C. E. D. committees preparing check sheets of anticipated postwar employment based on realistic and close analysis of their postwar pro-

Hold Sachs in Death Of Elizabeth Helsel

NORRISTOWN, June 17 — A Montgomery County coroner's jury deliberated but a short time before announcing that William Frank Sachs, 20, of Chalfont, Bucks County, should be held for action of the Bucks County grand jury.

The jury claimed that Sachs is responsible for the death of Elizabeth Ellen Helsel, 18, a student at West Chester State Teachers College, and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Chester A. Helsel, of Chalfont and Ambler.

The inquest was held before Coroner Winslow Rushong in the Montgomery County Court House. The only witness was Trooper J. J. Shovelin, Doylestown sub-station of State Police, who testified that Sachs had admitted that he was the operator of a stolen automobile and struck Miss Helsel on May 28 near the girl's home, north of Chalfont.

Miss Helsel was pronounced dead upon arrival at the Elm Terrace Hospital, Lansdale.

The officer testified that he found that Sachs had not returned home the night of the hit-run incident, and that the stolen car driven by Sachs had been recovered on Ferry road, two miles from Chalfont, early the next morning. Sachs was arrested in New Jersey.

Trooper Shovelin testified Sachs told him that he had taken the car in Chalfont on Sunday evening and had driven to a Bucks county tap room in a nearby community to get some beer. The officer said that Sachs told him that he had been drinking beer in Philadelphia the day before and also on Sunday.

Sachs is in the Bucks County Prison in default of bail. He has informed the Bucks county district attorney's office that he desires to plead guilty. Sach was not taken to the inquest.

FATHER'S DAY

It is fitting that this nation is to give a little of its attention and a little of its appreciation to father. For he is an insititution as old as the human race.

The contemplative approach to him is not so sentimental as that to mothers. Possibly that is because immemorially father has stood for order and discipline and mother for the softer refinements. Father stands for discipline within the home and a solid foundation for family life.

These entail responsibilities which are not always appreciated. But father is working harder, worrying more and making greater sacrifices now than he customarily does. Often he is fulfilling his own duties and those of a son at war who would normally be his right hand man.

He is carrying his business or his job through the complexities and the difficulties of the times. His brow is furrowing under the strain. He should have that word of cheer which he has well earned.

DECISIVE ACTION

The war in Europe has entered a period of decisive action that can have only one ending—the surrender of Germany. Preparing for years, the Allied High Command waited until everything, down to the most minute detail, was in readiness before invading France.

Relentless air war for months had battered Germany and German-held military objectives. Russia had pushed the Nazis back a thousand miles, the U boat menace had been licked. The fall of Rome and the disorganized retreat of the Nazis northward in Italy was psychological moment seized by General Eisenhower to unleash Allied military might against the dazed Nazi war machine in France.

Whether Hitler succumbs to his mounting military weaknesses this summer or fights delaying actions in blind desperation will determine the length of the war in Europe and the number of casualties. It can not affect the outcome in the slightest degree.

Following the capture of Rome by the Allied forces under General Clark, taking of Paris will be in the nature of an anti-climax, as will be the occupation of Berlin following the final capitulation of Germany. As a prelude to the invasion of Northern Europe, the winning of Rome was a prestige triumph of first importance. The Allies in Italy defeated the best that the German high command could send against them.

Within a relatively short time the United States Government has assembled the most powerful land, sea and air forces ever assembled under the American flag. Plans are in effect to bring the total strength of the overseas forces to 5,000,000 by the end of the year. Crushing of Hitler may make this unnecessary.

The United Nations are now in a position to achieve a total victory in all that the term implies. The weapons and the men are available to achieve complete victory over the Germans and the Japanese. All that remains is to drive home the advantage.

By FRANK R. KENT

that the New Deal spending policy always has been dearer to the heart of the Communist than to that of the New Dealer, because, as the former's leaders so frequently declared, it leads straight toward their goals — one of which is economic chaos.

—o—

BUT, WHAT especially grieves the New Dealers is the charge that the immediate objective of the Communists is to do to the Democratic party what they already have done to the American Labor party and the CIO. Nevertheless, that has been true for a long time. In support thereof is offered here extracts from a speech by William H. Murray, Communist leader in the State of Washington, made on October 29, 1936, and published in the Seattles Times. Mr. Murray, addressing his fellow Communists, was urging the election of the Democratic candidate for Governor, whom he declared, "while not an ideal candidate, will, if elected, be compelled to yield to the support which he will receive from the entire progressive movement."

—o—

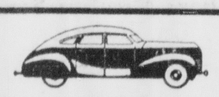

IN THIS speech, Mr. Murray made these interesting statements: (1) "We are making real progress in this State but we must not be impatient. We must avail ourselves of every forward-looking movement that leads in the direction of the ultimate Marxian goal." (2) "The recent success of liberals and progressives at the Democratic State Convention is of tremendous significance. The Democratic party adopted there the entire program of the Washington Commonwealth Federation." (3) "Only through much effort has it been possible to revitalize the Democratic party in this State, where it is now recognized, because of many Marxian principles, as a real progressive movement. Many of the Democratic candidates are either members of the Washington Commonwealth Federation or its parent organization, the Communist party." (4) "I recommend to all progressives and liberals in this State to register a consistent vote for the entire Democratic ticket. This, in fact, is what Earl Browder, our candidate for President on the Communist ticket, has repeated on many occasions." (5) "We are not going to elect the Communist ticket here or in the nation, but just as the movement is receiving so much help from the chief aides of President Roosevelt so must we in this State realize that the Marxian goal can be reached only by furthering just such progressive movements. As Communists, we must put aside our desire to achieve our program at one major stroke and co-operate with the Democratic organization in building a real people's front. Let no one divert us from our real objective."

—o—

NOW, THESE earnest words of a leading Communist are genuinely illuminating. They prove that the infiltration of the Democratic party has been a settled and consistent Communist policy for eight years. The facts attest the progress made and make it clear the 1944 effort is the strongest yet made—and with the best prospects. It is true, of course, that the Russians are our valued allies and we intend to live amicably with them after the fighting is over, but that should not blind us to the beautiful "boring-from-within" game, which American Communists have been playing here for eight years, and the degree of success which they have achieved.

PERHAPS, it is all right to regard this lightly and to dismiss those who do not so regard it as having political nightmares. Nevertheless, these facts cannot be disputed—to wit, that in some States, like Washington, the Communists have successfully infiltrated the Democratic party; that in New York they control the American Labor party, which claims to hold the balance of political power and polls as high as 400,000 votes; that they have great influence in the CIO, whose leaders are closely linked, personally and politically, with Mr. Roosevelt; that Browder, the Communist leader, is the original fourth termer, and a Roosevelt re-election would rejoice every Communist in the country. Add those things up and read again Communist Murray's 1936 speech and then see what the answer is. Maybe it is nothing to create a panic but it looks like a clear case. Certainly, it seems extremely sappish to ignore the facts and refuse to understand what those smooth operators are about.

WAY TO PREVENT WAR

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—"Participation" in world affairs must replace "isolationism" and "interventionism" as the keyword of American postwar policy, declared Rep. Clare Boothe Luce at a Union League meeting in Philadelphia. To prevent future wars, she said, the government must "use continuously the threat of our military power, the weight of our economic power and the good offices of our diplomatic power."

Claim Engineer Met Death Accidentally

mark and about 13 inches from the cabin window. The second was 7 feet further north, also a brush mark with a distance of 19 inches from the cabin window. The third also a brush mark 20 feet further north 15 inches from the cabin window. The first blood mark was noted about 150 feet further north.

Engineer's Kraus' glasses were found unbroken, together with his cap at about the site of the second brush mark.

Dr. Tice said that he learned that the speed of the northbound passenger train at the south portal of the tunnel was approximately 25 to 30 miles per hour.

"I do not believe that Kraus died of natural causes," Dr. Tice testified. "I believe he died as a result of the head injury. If he died as a result of the head injury he could not have received the injury normally looking forward out of his cabin window or the site of injury would have been located on the right side of the head. I believe that he looked backward. In doing so he might have placed his hand on top of the cabin window. If he did this the most distant part of his arm from the cabin would have been his elbow. This showed no injury and therefore I cannot see that it could have happened in this manner.

"However, he may have been out of his cabin window to look to the rear and placed his hand on his head to support his cap. Then the first marking in the tunnel could have been the contusion of his left arm with its fracture, which took him downward for the second brush mark occurring in front of the left ear and smudge of cap with the loss of cap and glasses followed by a slight raising of his head and the third tunnel mark, causing the fatal fracture of the skull after which he dropped to level of cabin window, which height would correspond to level of blood mark.

"All of the marks of the body and the tunnel would be possible and while it is my conjecture, it was witnessed by no one and I am merely offering this explanation to you for your approval."

Dr. Tice explained in detail to the jury, demonstrating with a trained tunnel that he had constructed for the purpose of completing his investigation.

Members of the coroner's jury included Clarence A. G. Pease, foreman, Henry Hoffman, Howard Kooker, Jr., William J. Staddinger, Henry Benner, all of Quakertown; and C. Lee Johnston, Cornwells Heights.

Mrs. Richard Pollock, of Glenside, the immediate past president of Montgomery County Federation, was a guest of the conference and described in detail the work of the "Work Shop," a system of training women for civic work. Mrs. Pollock, during her presidency, inaugurated this work in Montgomery county.

Not Waiting for Brewster Crisis to Start Planning

duction plans and market opportunities.

In his introduction to the handbook, Marion B. Folsom, treasurer of the Eastman Kodak Company and chairman of the Field Development Division of the Committee for Economic Development, says:

"If we fail in our responsibility as businessmen to plan the future and to plan it confidently, others will step in and make the decisions, provide the jobs, determine the production. And we, the businessmen of America, will have no right to complain. The opportunity and the challenge are one."

The six steps in postwar planning by individual businesses as formulated in the C. E. D. handbook for industrial employers are:

1. Define and place responsibility for postwar planning.
2. Plan your product programs.
3. Plan your market and sales program.
4. Determine the manufacturing facilities you require.
5. Estimate your employment requirements, define jobs and plan employee training.
6. Estimate the operating funds needed and plan their sources.

The detailed suggestions made under these six headings emphasize the need of making postwar plans, in each company, concrete and realistic to those "down the line." Business executives are urged to subject their pricing policies to harsh scrutiny, since "postwar competition will demand it."

"The switch from war materials production to civilian products," the handbook says, "represents the greatest opportunity that American industry has ever had to make a complete re-appraisal of its methods and procedures. Your business judgment should preferably err on the high side. High employment after the war means that there should be five jobs when there were four jobs before the war."

The need for each business concern to review its industrial training program is emphasized as follows:

"No employer should overlook the fact that millions of men and women coming out of the armed forces will have experienced the most intensive and purposeful training ever devised. Modern military training shows the recruit the whole picture, tells him the reasons why, and is geared to two purposes, beating the enemy and self-preservation.

"Future industrial training must likewise be purposeful, and must show the employee how he can get more out of the enterprise for himself by helping other employees and the company to get more."

"The challenge to American business lies in setting up to produce the goods on which savings can be spent, and thus create the opportunities for employment which the millions of men and women from the armed forces and the war factories will be seeking. We cannot go back to the production level of 1940. We must strive for a postwar expansion of at least a third more."

A subsequent handbook will deal with the postwar planning procedures for wholesalers and retailers.

HULMEVILLE

The members of a local card club enjoyed a dinner and theatre party in Philadelphia on Wednesday evening. Participants were: Mrs. Charles Thorpe, Sr., Hulmeville; Mrs. John Dothert, Mrs. Nellie Baum, South Langhorne; and Mrs. Howard Mather, of Langhorne.

Sgt. Louis Surrick Tells How Boys at The Front Support Bond Drives

parison should give you a very commendable figure in your drive at home.

"I do believe, however, that the folks at home do not have the same impressionable incentive to give all they can spare like we do here. Each day we see in actuality the real necessity for lending to our government every available penny for we are in a position where we can see, in a small way, the tremendous amount of dollars that must be needed to conduct a war to a successful conclusion. There are so many angles, so very many places for the money to be used that it is impossible for one small mind to enumerate them. Being so close as we are in one small area of this gigantic upheaval, we can see in miniature form the necessities that you folks back home probably cannot visualize. The amount of dollars needed must be an unimaginable figure.

"We, who are so anxious to get this whole thing over with so that we can get back to our homes and country, are looking to you folks back there to give all these drives your complete co-operation. I am sure you are doing just that and will continue to do so, for it is sure to lead to happier days for all of us.

"Once again, thanks for everything, and please accept my heartiest wishes for your good luck and success.

"Your good friend,
"LOU" SURRICK."

NEW TYPE GERMAN FIGHTER FLARE IS ENCOUNTERED BY BRITISH BOMBERS AS THEY BLAST NAZI SYNTHETIC OIL PLANT

New Device Against Allies Employed for Second Successive Night---Germans Continue to Send Pilotless Robot Bombs Across the Channel — Few Nurses and Patients Killed When One Crashes on Hospital.

By Joseph Thomas
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 17--The Nazis employed a new device against the Allies for the second successive night, the Air Ministry revealed today, when British heavy bombers which blasted a synthetic oil plant near Duisburg encountered a new type of German fighter flare.

The Germans also continued to send across the English Channel their pilotless robot bombs which they employed in considerable force on Thursday night against Southern England.

Strong forces of RAF Lancaster and Halifax bombers attacked the Fischer synthetic oil plant at Stekrade, five miles north of Duisburg, while speedy Mosquito bombers unloaded 4,000-pound bombs on Berlin.

The attack on the Stekrade plant was the second this week.

Returning pilots said that in countering their raid on the synthetic oil plant, which has an output of about 125,000 metric tons yearly and is one of ten such plants in the Ruhr, the Nazis used a flare which they had not seen before.

The flare, said the pilots, gives off a yellow light and hangs at a high level for about six seconds. Then it drops automatically to several lower levels, hanging at each for a few seconds.

Southern England again was the target of the Nazi aerial assault in which craft with and without pilots were employed. The enemy raiders were met by heavy barrages of anti-aircraft fire.

The Nazi agency DNB said in a wireless transmission that fast Ger-

MORRISVILE PLANS BORO' IMPROVEMENTS

Post-War Fund Set Up For Establishment of Water Works

$10,000 IS SET ASIDE

MORRISVILLE, June 17—Setting aside of a $10,000 fund for post-war work in Morrisville, was proposed at the meeting of the borough council this week. The suggestion was made by Councilman Charles Young. The hope is for a water works improvement, the proposed reserve fund to take care of same.

It was pointed out that a new filtration plant is urgently needed. The motion was passed and the fund arranged for.

President Harry Lair said another needed public works is a sewer system. He said the borough should act now to see that sewers are laid immediately after the war.

John Bleasdale, councilman from the Fourth Ward and chairman of the sanitation committee, announced that due to several complaints, action must be taken regarding odors coming from the Vulcanized Rubber Company. The borough secretary was authorized to write to the company to see what could be done, and also act on the repeated complaint about dumping of rubbish of an inflammable nature on the gravel pit at Philadelphia Avenue.

Hillcrest, Mercer and Harding avenue will receive a top dressing of tar and stone. Frank Hibbs, former council member, was engaged to supervise the street improvement work. About 650 feet of six-inch water main at an estimated cost of $1,300 will be put in Ferry Road between North Pennsylvania and Greenway avenues, Edgehill Gardens.

Council told Borough Solicitor Willard Curtin to take action against Roy Fox, of Newtown, who ran into a fire plug recently, causing damage of $105. Fox agreed to pay the damage at the time of the accident but has failed to do so.

In a discussion regarding the police car, Young said the car is for the protection of residents of the borough, and that if any nui-

Major Robertson, now stationed somewhere in England, entered Farm School in 1930. He was outstanding in his veterinary class and in athletics, having played three years of football.

Within the last three months the former Farm School student, who at one time lived at 3902 Baltimore ave., Phila., and later at 100 Van-Cott avenue, Hempstead, L. I., was promoted from captain to major.

A copy of Major Robertson's citation from President Roosevelt has been received here. It reads:

"In addition to his military duties, Major Robertson conducted extensive tests and research into the diseases of domestic animals then prevalent in Iceland, administered preventive innoculations to large numbers of cattle, sheep and hogs and advised and assisted Icelandis farmers in many ways.

"As a result of his efforts, the farmers of Iceland have greatly benefited, and internal economy of the country has been materially improved, thereby advancing the already friendly relationship between the people of Iceland and the United States."

SGT. LOUIS SURRICK TELLS HOW BOYS AT THE FRONT SUPPORT BOND DRIVES; FOLKS AT HOME URGED TO DO LIKEWISE

CROYDON, June 17—The Croydon committee for the Fifth War Loan Drive is making plans for solicitation of residents in this area.

The solicitors are being selected, and the Girl Scouts will also aid in the drive.

Miss Elizabeth Tyler today made public a letter received from Sgt. Louis Surrick, who is now stationed in Sardinia. The letter was written by Sgt. Surrick at the close of the last war loan drive:

"Dear Miss Tyler:

"I have before me, at this moment, a clipping from the Bristol Courier and a letter from you which contains the information that I was accorded the privilege of being number one bond purchaser in the recent drive in the Croyden area. Honestly, I consider this more than a privilege. It is an honor and one that I sincerely appreciate. Thanks a million for granting my request.

I want to take this opportunity to inform you that it is my desire to purchase a bond in any future drive you may have in our town. I will not be so greedy as to request the number one position since I feel that no matter how soon, or how late, in any drive, the purchase is made the main object of giving our government the use of the money is fullled. After all, that is the prime purpose and a most necessary one.

"I have not as yet heard the figures on your drive but I am sure it must have been a grand success. Your committee in charge, with Mr. Harris as chairman, I know from experience, would create a spirit of enthusiasm that would make a success of anything they might undertake. Then, too, I am sure that the people of our area, who are the real purchasing power, realize the necessity of the drive and would back it wholeheartedly. My experience among them has taught me that when the residents of Croydon approve a move beneficial to the community, they get behind it with a will that is sure to make for its success. I hope it will always be so.

"It might be interesting for you to know that this particular bond drive reached all the way to the front lines where the war is actually being fought. We had a bond drive here in our squadron and the amount of dollars used to purchase bonds would, I am sure, be surprising to you. I am not at liberty to reveal any figures and the reason for that is obvious, but you can take my word for it that the results were splendid. Naturally, a very large percentage of the boys purchase bonds on a monthly basis through pay allotments, but these deductions are a regular thing and were not counted in the drive. Certainly if these men can make such a remarkable showing on the amount of wages they are receiving, a com-

CLAIM ENGINEER MET DEATH ACCIDENTALLY

Coroner's Jury Gives Its Findings; Kraus' Head Struck Tunnel

FIREMAN TOOK OVER

QUAKERTOWN, June 17—In the opinion of a coroner's jury, Charles L. Kraus, of 6527 North Fifth St., Philadelphia, engineer of the Reading Railroad "Saturday Special" that ran four miles without an engineer on Saturday afternoon, May 20, met his death in an accidental manner.

An inquest in the case was held here Thursday night in the Municipal Building, with Coroner J. Alfred Rigby, Cornwells Heights, and Deputy Coroner Dr. Raymond Tice, of Quakertown, in charge.

Kraus was killed when his head struck the inside wall of the mile-long Perkasie tunnel, and the train proceeded on, gaining speed as it headed for Quakertown, passing by road crossings without an engineer's warning signal until it was finally brought to a stop north of the Quakertown — Broad street— crossing, by the fireman who applied the air brakes. The engine was the camel-back type.

Dr. Tice was the main witness called. He testified that he was called to the scene about 1.52 p. m. He said that he found that the left side of the engineer's head was open and bleeding. The engineer was dead.

Dr. Tice said that he talked with Joseph Hone, 1629 N. 12th St., Philadelphia, the fireman, who told him that he thought something was wrong when the train passed by several road crossings without the engineer's warning signal. Hone told Dr. Tice that he crawled up to the engineer's cabin and there found Kraus' lifeless body hanging out the cab window. It was then that Hone applied the air-brakes, after the train had speeded by the Quakertown passenger station with the dead engineer in the cab.

Dr. Tice testified that Kraus was a veteran engineer and weighed about 200 pounds and was 5 feet, 8 inches tall. The engineer's skull was fractured.

"No evidences of any constitutional disease were found during the autopsy," Dr. Tice testified. "From the findings of external violence the cause of death was thought to be as a result of compound fracture of the skull."

"Going into the tunnel north of Perkasie, headed north-bound, Engineer Kraus waved to the tunnel watchman, Charles L. Kramer."

Deputy Coroner Tice testified that Cowal, of Lansdale, supervisor of tracks, found four marks on the side of the tunnel. The first mark was noted approximately one-eighth mile from the south portal of the tunnel, and this was a brush

The Stroller

—o—

The Stroller,
Dear Sir:

Please tell "Ed" Lynn that Jack London has been dead just about 28 years.

Also, he has not seen a freight train go over Mill street for at least 33 years.

Please correct.

DAILY READER
(B. E. Seifert)

Another reader of the Stroller column informs me that it has been at least 35 years since Jack London was arrested here. This reader states that the arrest was made at Pond and Walnut streets by the late Anthony Tice, who was a member of the Bristol police force.

"Ed" Lynn says that the arrest was made at Mill street and the Highway, near the Grand Theatre, 20 years ago, by the late Chief of Police Charles Saxton.

BENSALEM EMPLOYEES BUY $3,125 IN BONDS

Bond Wagon Visits Two Industrial Plants; Shows Presented

ENTHUSIASM IS KEEN

At war bond rallies, staged at Pennsylvania Salt Mfg. Co. and Keystone Wood Preserving Co. plants, Bensalem Township, under auspices of the War Finance Committee an aggregate amount of $3,125 in war bonds were purchased by the employees.

The initial rally was held yesterday noon in the Pennsylvania Salt plant where the management had erected an elaborate booth and stage for the occasion.

After the entertainment which consisted of a stage show, headed by Carmen Torrente, Andalusia, featuring the "Four Blues," nationally known recording artists, and Miss Nan Jones, a total of $1325 was sold in bonds to company employees. Through the generosity of Mr. Torrente free beverages were distributed to the employees.

Employees bought bonds for the privilege of dancing with members of the show and numerous examples of the terpsichorian art were displayed, from the polka to jitterbug, resulting in hearty guffaws from on-lookers.

At 4 p. m. the bond wagon rolled into the Keystone Wood Preserving Co. premises, where Carmen and his show entertained those employed by that company. The first to buy a bond was Denwitty Jones, colored, who purchased a $100 bond. Mr. Jones, a man of advanced years, said he is the father of 11 children, three of his sons abroad with the armed forces. When his purchase was announced it was applauded by cheers.

From then on the sales momentum gathered speed. To the tunes

Rev. Augustus Welsh Is Rotary Club Speaker

QUAKERTOWN, June 17 — The Rev. Augustus Welsh, Bethlehem, a former president of the Bethlehem Rotary Club, gave the local Rotarians food for thought in his address to the club this week.

The Rev. Mr. Welsh gave a talk different from the usual type of Rotary addresses by explaining four rules of life which he has laid down for himself and which, he said, may benefit others.

The clergyman said people live largely by chance or by accident and much time is wasted and many things undone, hence the necessity for definite rules by which to live.

His first rule is start the day with God because, he said, the individual needs divine help in facing the many problems of each day. His second rule is that the will should rule the feelings of the individual, and the individual should not give way easily to sudden emotions, because human nature often runs berserk when the emotions take control of the mind, either for good or evil.

In the third place, said Rev. Welsh, the individual should cultivate a tolerance of the opinions of others and a sympathy for others. In this connection the teachings of Rotary, he said, are having an important influence in favor of tolerance and this will help to produce fairness in post-war dealings with other nations.

The last rule, said Rev. Welsh, is "Don't worry. Do the best you can and leave the rest to God."

Americans Forces Suff er 15,883 Casualties in Securing Beachheads

With the U. S. Army in France—American forces suffered 15,883 casualties in securing their beachhead positions in France, Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley disclosed today.

The casualties included 3,283 dead, and 12,600 wounded. Gen. Bradley also announced that the total number of German prisoners evacuated from the American beachhead was 8,500. The commander of all U. S. ground forces in France declared that Americans had survived two critical periods and "we are absolutely secure here now." Bradley identified these periods as the landings on the beaches east of the Douve and the enemy counter-attack at Carentan.

"The guts, valor and extreme bravery of the men and their leaders, through which we were able to make the landing a success," were praised by Gen. Bradley. "I can't say too much for the paratroops," he went on. Gen. Bradley also praised the work of the navy in knocking out German defense. The air force was lauded for the wonderful work done in keeping the enemy from building up his forces before the Americans were securely ashore.

The Germans, he disclosed, have a total of 16 divisions confronting the Allied beachheads and have 62 divisions scattered from Denmark down along the French coast.

Advance reconnaissance patrols were reported already inside Barneville, with the bulk of Allied forces less than eight miles from the Atlantic Ocean, virtually cutting off the whole Cherbourg Peninsula.

NOT WAITING FOR BREWSTER CRISIS TO START PLANNING

Private Industry Has Research Committee Now at Work

ON POST-WAR PLANS

Book is Made Available by Bucks Co. Committee For Econmic Development

"Private industry is not waiting for a Brewster crisis to get started on post war planning. In fact it has had a committee of research experts and others working for more than a year in planning practical post-war guides for industrial leaders," it was stated today by Charles H. Boehm, superintendent of Bucks County public schools.

"Concrete steps which may be taken by industrial employers in planning for high postwar levels of production and employment are set forth in great detail in a handbook, Planning the Future of Your Business, prepared for the Committee for Economic Development by a special committee of the Association of Consulting Management Engineers and issued by the C. E. D. this week.

The handbook is obtainable locally through the Bucks County Committee for Economic Development. County Chairman Boehm has placed a number of copies in the hands of the industrial chairman in the six different areas in the county. Some of these new handbooks are already in the hands of Bucks County industrial representatives. While the handbook is best suited for leaders employing 50 or more people, it is helpful to industrial plants that have only a few employees. It is not obtainable from the national C. E. D. office. More than 48,000 industrial concerns, representing 73% of the nation's 1939 factory output, are already working with 1498 local C. E. D. committees preparing check sheets of anticipated postwar employment based on realistic and close analysis of their postwar pro-

Hold Sachs in Death Of Elizabeth Helsel

NORRISTOWN, June 17 — A Montgomery County coroner's jury deliberated but a short time before announcing that William Frank Sachs, 20, of Chalfont, Bucks County, should be held for action of the Bucks County grand jury.

The jury claimed that Sachs is responsible for the death of Elizabeth Ellen Helsel, 18, a student at West Chester State Teachers College, and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Chester A. Helsel, of Chalfont and Ambler.

The inquest was held before Coroner Winslow Rushong in the Montgomery County Court House. The only witness was Trooper J. J. Shovelin, Doylestown sub-station of State Police, who testified that Sachs had admitted that he was the operator of a stolen automobile and struck Miss Helsel on May 28 near the girl's home, north of Chalfont.

Miss Helsel was pronounced dead upon arrival at the Elm Terrace Hospital, Lansdale.

The officer testified that he found that Sachs had not returned home the night of the hit-run incident, and that the stolen car driven by Sachs had been recovered on Ferry road, two miles from Chalfont, early the next morning. Sachs was arrested in New Jersey.

Trooper Shovelin testified Sachs told him that he had taken the car in Chalfont on Sunday evening and had driven to a Bucks county tap room in a nearby community to get some beer. The officer said that Sachs told him that he had been drinking beer in Philadelphia the day before and also on Sunday.

Sachs is in the Bucks County Prison in default of bail. He has informed the Bucks county district attorney's office that he desires to plead guilty. Sach was not taken to the inquest.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

A Clear Case

Washington, June 15.

WHEN, some months ago, the Communist leader, Mr. Browder, smugly announced the abandonment by the Communists of a separate party of their own and their devotion, henceforth, to the American system of government, various cynical people made the obvious comment about the leopard and his well-known spots.

—o—

AND, WHEN this pious announcement was followed by ringing indorsement of Mr. Roosevelt's fourth-term effort, others pointed out that the Communists had been for the New Deal policies from the start; that they had supported Mr. Roosevelt in 1936 and 1940 when they had a party and a candidate of their own; that Mr. Browder was the original fourth termer; that the plain purpose of the Communists today, working through the CIO, which they thoroughly permeate, and the American Labor party, which they have captured, is to "infiltrate" the Democratic party and strengthen themselves in the next Roosevelt administration—if there is one.

NOT THE LEAST convincing evidence of this belief are the cries of pain that come from a certain type New Dealer who, trying to escape the unpleasant implications, makes the somewhat silly point that, in 1940, when Browder was a candidate, the Communist platform denounced the Administration's foreign policy—as though that meant anything. The evidence of support is in the Browder vote that year, not in the platform. Though there had been a large increase in Communist membership since 1932, Mr. Browder polled only 48,700 votes in 1940, as compared to 80,100 in 1936 and 103,000 in 1932. Every posted politician knows that in 1940, as in 1936, Mr. Roosevelt got more Communist votes than Mr. Browder—and with Mr. Browder's cheerful acquiescence. The fact is

FATHER'S DAY

It is fitting that this nation is to give a little of its attention and a little of its appreciation to father. For he is an institution as old as the human race.

The contemplative approach to him is not so sentimental as that to mothers. Possibly that is because immemorially father has stood for order and discipline and mother for the softer refinements. Father stands for discipline within the home and a solid foundation for family life.

These entail responsibilities which are not always appreciated. But father is working harder, worrying more and making greater sacrifices now than he customarily does. Often he is fulfilling his own duties and those of a son at war who would normally be his right hand man.

He is carrying his business or his job through the complexities and the difficulties of the times. His brow is furrowing under the strain. He should have that word of cheer which he has well earned.

DECISIVE ACTION

The war in Europe has entered a period of decisive action that can have only one ending—the surrender of Germany. Preparing for years, the Allied High Command waited until everything, down to the most minute detail, was in readiness before invading France.

Relentless air war for months had battered Germany and German-held military objectives. Russia had pushed the Nazis back a thousand miles, the U-boat menace had been licked. The fall of Rome and the disorganized retreat of the Nazis northward in Italy was psychological moment seized by General Eisenhower to unleash Allied military might against the dazed Nazi war machine in France.

Whether Hitler succumbs to his mounting military weaknesses this summer or fights delaying actions in blind desperation will determine the length of the war in Europe and the number of casualties. It can not affect the outcome in the slightest degree.

Following the capture of Rome by the Allied forces under General Clark, taking of Paris will be in the nature of an anti-climax, as will be the occupation of Berlin following the final capitulation of Germany. As a prelude to the invasion of Northern Europe, the winning of Rome was a prestige triumph of first importance. The Allies in Italy defeated the best that the German high command could send against them.

Within a relatively short time the United States Government has assembled the most powerful land, sea and air forces ever assembled under the American flag. Plans are in effect to bring the total strength of the overseas forces to 5,000,000 by the end of the year. Crushing of Hitler may make this unnecessary.

The United Nations are now in a position to achieve a total victory in all that the term implies. The weapons and the men are available to achieve complete victory over the Germans and the Japanese. All that remains is to drive home the advantage.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

that the New Deal spending policy always has been dearer to the heart of the Communist than to that of the New Dealer, because, as the former's leaders so frequently declared, it leads straight toward their goals—one of which is economic chaos.

—o—

BUT, WHAT especially grieves the New Dealers is the charge that the immediate objective of the Communists is to do to the Democratic party what they already have done to the American Labor party and the CIO. Nevertheless, that has been true for a long time. In support thereof is offered here extracts from a speech by William H. Murray, Communist leader in the State of Washington, made on October 29, 1936, and published in the Seattles Times. Mr. Murray, addressing his fellow Communists, was urging the election of the Democratic candidate for Governor, whom he declared, "while not an ideal candidate, will, if elected, be compelled to yield to the support which he will receive from the entire progressive movement."

—o—

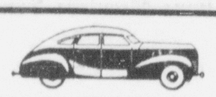

IN THIS speech, Mr. Murray made these interesting statements: (1) "We are making real progress in this State but we must not be impatient. We must avail ourselves of every forward-looking movement that leads in the direction of the ultimate Marxian goal." (2) "The recent success of liberals and progressives at the Democratic State Convention is of tremendous significance. The Democratic party adopted there the entire program of the Washington Commonwealth Federation." (3) "Only through much effort has it been possible to revitalize the Democratic party in this State, where it is now recognized, because of many Marxian principles, as a real progressive movement. Many of the Democratic candidates are either members of the Washington Commonwealth Federation or its parent organization, the Communist party." (4) "I recommend to all progressives and liberals in this State to register a consistent vote for the entire Democratic ticket. This, in fact, is what Earl Browder, our candidate for President on the Communist ticket, has repeated on many occasions." (5) "We are not going to elect the Communist ticket here or in the nation, but just as the movement is receiving so much help from the chief aides of President Roosevelt so must we in this State realize that the Marxian goal can be reached only by furthering just such progressive movements. As Communists, we must put aside our desire to achieve our program at one major stroke and co-operate with the Democratic organization in building a real people's front. Let no one divert us from our real objective."

—o—

NOW, THESE earnest words of a leading Communist are genuinely illuminating. They prove that the infiltration of the Democratic party has been a settled and consistent Communist policy for eight years. The facts attest the progress made and make it clear the 1944 effort is the strongest yet made—and with the best prospects. It is true, of course, that the Russians are our valued allies and we intend to live amicably with them after the fighting is over, but that should not blind us to the beautiful "boring-from-within" game, which American Communists have been playing here for eight years, and the degree of success which they have achieved.

PERHAPS, it is all right to regard this lightly and to dismiss those who do not so regard it as having political nightmares. Nevertheless, these facts cannot be disputed—to wit, that in some States, like Washington, the Communists have successfully infiltrated the Democratic party; that in New York they control the American Labor party, which claims to hold the balance of political power and polls as high as 400,000 votes; that they have great influence in the CIO, whose leaders are closely linked, personally and politically, with Mr. Roosevelt; that Browder, the Communist leader, is the original fourth termer, and a Roosevelt re-election would rejoice every Communist in the country. Add those things up and read again Communist Murray's 1936 speech and then see what the answer is. Maybe it is nothing to create a panic but it looks like a clear case. Certainly, it seems extremely sapphish to ignore the facts and refuse to understand what these smooth operators are about.

We Have a Victory Worker Ready to Move In

The production front is just as important to victory as the fighting front. In order to keep up production of Plexiglas, Lethane, Primal, Lykopon and other vital war materials, we must bring in workers from outside areas—and they must have living quarters.

If you have a spare room for a man or woman in Bristol or vicinity, here is a chance to help the war effort and add to your income at the same time. Phone Bristol 875—ask for Personnel Dept. If you have registered your room with us, be sure to phone us whenever it is vacant, so we can send you a new roomer promptly.

WAY TO PREVENT WAR

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—"Participation" in world affairs must replace "isolationism" and "interventionism" as the keyword of American postwar policy, declared Rep. Clare Boothe Luce at a Union League meeting in Philadelphia. To prevent future wars, she said, the government must "use continuously the threat of our military power, the weight of our economic power and the good offices of our diplomatic power."

Claim Engineer Met Death Accidentally

mark and about 13 inches from the cabin window. The second was 7 feet further north, also a brush mark with a distance of 19 inches from the cabin window. The third also a brush mark 20 feet further north 15 inches from the cabin window. The first blood mark was noted about 150 feet further north.

Engineer's Kraus' glasses were found unbroken, together with his cap at about the site of the second brush mark.

Dr. Tice said that he learned that the speed of the northbound passenger train at the south portal of the tunnel was approximately 25 to 30 miles per hour.

"I do not believe that Kraus died of natural causes," Dr. Tice testified. "I believe he died as a result of the head injury. If he died as a result of the head injury he could not have received the injury normally looking forward out of his cabin window or the site of injury would have been located on the right side of the head. I believe that he looked backward. In doing so he might have placed his hand on top of the cabin window. If he did this the most distant part of his arm from the cabin would have been his elbow. This showed no injury and therefore I cannot see that it could have happened in this manner.

"However, he may have been out of his cabin window to look to the rear and placed his hand on his head to support his cap. Then the first marking in the tunnel could have been the contusion of his left arm with its fracture, which took him downward for the second brush mark occurring in front of the left ear and smudge of cap with the loss of cap and glasses followed by a slight raising of his head and the third tunnel mark, causing the fatal fracture of the skull after which he dropped to level of cabin window, which height would correspond to level of blood mark.

"All of the marks of the body and the tunnel would be possible and while it is my conjecture, it was witnessed by no one and I am merely offering this explanation to you for your approval."

Dr. Tice explained in detail to the jury, demonstrating with a frame tunnel that he had constructed for the purpose of completing his investigation.

Members of the coroner's jury included Clarence A. G. Pease, foreman, Henry Hoffman, Howard Hooker, Jr., William J. Staddinger, Henry Benner, all of Quakertown; and C. Lee Johnston, Cornwells Heights.

the clubs in the county were introduced. Fifteen of the senior and 11 of the Junior Clubs were represented, there being 40 women present.

A report of the recent state federation meeting in Harrisburg was given by the presidents of the clubs. Members were informed that junior woman's club work was first started in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Richard Pollock, of Glenside, the immediate past president of Montgomery County Federation, was a guest of the conference and described in detail the work of the "Work Shop," a system of training women for civic work. Mrs. Pollock, during her presidency, inaugurated this work in Montgomery county.

Not Waiting for Brewster Crisis to Start Planning

duction plans and market opportunities.

In his introduction to the handbook, Marion B. Folsom, treasurer of the Eastman Kodak Company and chairman of the Field Development Division of the Committee for Economic Development, says:

"If we fail in our responsibility as businessmen to plan the future and to plan it confidently, others will step in and make the decisions, provide the jobs, determine the production. And we, the businessmen of America, will have no right to complain. The opportunity and the challenge are one."

The six steps in postwar planning by individual businesses as formulated in the C. E. D. handbook for industrial employers are:

1. Define and place responsibility for postwar planning.
2. Plan your product programs.
3. Plan your market and sales program.
4. Determine the manufacturing facilities you require.
5. Estimate your employment requirements, define jobs and plan employee training.
6. Estimate the operating funds needed and plan their sources.

The detailed suggestions made under these six headings emphasize the need of making postwar plans, in each company, concrete and realistic to those "down the line." Business executives are urged to subject their pricing policies to harsh scrutiny, since "postwar competition will demand it."

"The switch from war materials production to civilian products," the handbook says, "represents the greatest opportunity that American industry has ever had to make a complete re-appraisal of its methods and procedures. Your business judgment should preferably err on the high side. High employment after the war means that there should be five jobs when there were four jobs before the war."

The need for each business concern to review its industrial training program is emphasized as follows:

"No employer should overlook the fact that millions of men and women coming out of the armed forces will have experienced the most intensive and purposeful training ever devised. Modern military training shows the recruit the whole picture, tells him the reasons why, and is geared to two purposes, beating the enemy and self-preservation.

"Future industrial training must likewise be purposeful, and must show the employee how he can get more out of the enterprise for himself by helping other employees and the company to get more."

"The challenge to American business lies in setting up to produce the goods on which savings can be spent, and thus create the opportunities for employment which the millions of men and women from the armed forces and the war factories will be seeking. We cannot go back to the production level of 1940. We must strive for a postwar expansion of at least a third more."

A subsequent handbook will deal with the postwar planning procedures for wholesalers and retailers.

HULMEVILLE

The members of a local card club enjoyed a dinner and theatre party in Philadelphia on Wednesday evening. Participants were: Mrs. Charles Thorpe, Sr., Hulmeville; Mrs. John Dothert, Mrs. Nellie Baum, South Langhorne; and Mrs. Howard Mather, of Langhorne.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Walter Jackson will entertain members of her club.

parison should give you a very commendable figure in your drive at home.

"I do believe, however, that the folks at home do not have the same impressionable incentive to give all they can spare like we do here. Each day we see in actuality the real necessity for lending to our government every available penny for we are in a position where we can see, in a small way, the tremendous amount of dollars that must be needed to conduct a war to a successful conclusion. There are so many angles, so very many places for the money to be used that it is impossible for one small mind to enumerate them. Being so close as we are in one small area of this gigantic upheaval, we can see in miniature form the necessities that you folks back home probably cannot visualize. The amount of dollars needed must be an unimaginable figure.

"We, who are so anxious to get this whole thing over with so that we can get back to our homes and country, are looking to you folks back there to give all these drives your complete co-operation. I am sure you are doing just that and will continue to do so, for it is sure to lead to happier days for all of us.

"Once again, thanks for everything, and please accept my heartiest wishes for your good luck and success.

"Your good friend,
